

OFFICE OF FINANCIAL AID

2022-23 VERIFICATION OF DEPENDENCY STATUS

DEPENDENCY OVERRIDE

Dear Student:

Federal law sets the rules for dependency, thus each student must first be evaluated against these guidelines. Please review the 2022-2023 Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA), step three to determine if you can answer yes to one of the questions. Generally, a student is independent if he or she was born before January 1, 1999, is a veteran of the U.S. armed forces, is enrolled in a graduate program, is married, or has legal dependents that you provide 50% of the support for.

The circumstances below are not grounds for a dependency override; and parent information will need to be submitted for federal financial aid to be evaluated:

- 1) Parent's refusal to contribute to the student's education.
- 2) Parent's unwillingness to provide information on the FAFSA or for verification.
- 3) Parents did not claim the student as a dependent for income tax purposes.
- 4) Student does not reside with parents.
- 5) Student is financially self-sufficient.

These are some examples of unusual circumstances that are outlined by the department of education:

- 1) An abusive family environment. The abuse should be documented in a corroborating letter or document.
- 2) Parental abandonment. The abandonment should be documented in a corroborating letter or document.
- 3) Parental incarceration. The incarceration should be documented in a corroborating letter or document.
- 4) Incapacitating parental illness. The illness should be documented in a corroborating letter or document.
- 5) Other highly unusual family circumstances. The circumstance should be documented in a corroborating letter or document.

Camden County College's financial aid office is not bound by a dependency override that was approved at another college. An override at one college is not binding at another. Federal law requires the financial aid office at the college the student plans to attend or is currently attending to determine whether a dependency override is approved.

Dependency overrides that are approved at Camden County College do not automatically carry over from one year to the next. The financial aid office must reaffirm each year that the unusual circumstances persist and that a dependency override is still approved. Students are required to submit an appeal for a dependency override along with year-specific documentation each year for reevaluation of dependency status. The appeal should confirm that the circumstances persist and must be documented to the extent required by the Office of Financial Aid.

Sincerely,

The Financial Aid Appeals Committee
